SENATOR ALLARD CONDEMNS TERRORIST ATTACK ON LONDON, SAYS BOMBINGS WILL ONLY STRENGTHEN RESOLVE IN WAR ON TERROR

WASHINGTON, D.C. — U.S. Senator Wayne Allard (R-Colorado) strongly condemned the terrorist bombings in London Thursday, saying these attacks will only strengthen the resolve of the American people and the British people to pursue the war on terror.

“Once again, cowardly terrorists in our midst have taken innocent lives. It is highly ironic that this occurred while leaders of the free nations of the world were meeting to discuss efforts to help less-developed nations find their way out of the abyss of poverty and despair,” Senator Allard said.

“Our hearts go out to the British people, victimized by evil while their prime minister was delivering a message of hope to the world. These attacks will only further strengthen our resolve to pursue the war on terror until it is won. We will not back down.

“Knowing the strength and resolve of the British people, I am confident they will not be intimidated by these attacks and that, in the end, justice will be brought to those responsible for these cowardly acts.”
